DEVELOP A HOPE FOR THE FUTURE

WILL STRIVE TO PREVENT THE RE-ELECTION OF SLEMP IN NINTH VIRGINIA DISTRICT.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE STAR.

RICHMOND, Va., October 23.—The last week of the campaign in Virginia will find many well known men on the stump for the democrats. The people of Virginia have finally awakened, and they are making up for lost time. There will be no chance in the politics of the Old Dominion. In the belief of Chairman James and the members of his executive committee, much of the work of the campaign has devolved on Capt. William D. Cardwell and Secretary Jacob N. Brennan, and they have kept things moving in good shape for the past week, and for next week they are arranged for at least twenty men to take the stump. Much of the campaign has been in the ninth district, where the democrats are seeking to wrest the congressional seat from C. Rasmus Slemp and give it to Lieut. Holling H. Handy. Mr. Slemp had the start on him and has been losing no time in making speeches to the people, but the reports are that Lieut. Handy had the start on him and has been losing no time in making speeches to the people, but the reports are that Lieut. Handy had the start on him and has been losing no time in making speeches to the people.

The republicans are claiming that they will capture two or three seats in the House of Representatives. They are not conceding that they will lose a solitary man, and they are making their best efforts to sweep the state by defeating Slemp. In the three districts referred to—fifth, sixth and seventh—there are republicans, and in the fourth and eighth districts there are democrats. They are men of generally good reputations, have big followings and they have been for the most part making aggressive campaigns.

Democratic Women at Work.

For several weeks the trend of the woman vote in this city was a problem for the party management, but this has been relieved to such an extent that no apprehension of a change is felt by the democrats. The women have organized a club of democratic women, and it has a membership that far exceeds any club heretofore organized when only men had the ballot. This club was organized a week ago, and the applications for membership have been coming at the rate of hundreds each day. The women are officers of the club, they are active in business, and they show a surprising aptitude for political methods.

In all sections of the state there have been local and Rhode Island women looking to marking the ballots in the coming election. The candidates are all on the same ticket, and the women regarding the marking are such that there is certain to be confusion, even with the careful and the women for the men who are trained in the way.

There is a good deal of speculation as to how many women in the state will lose their votes by reason of the registration failure in many sections. It is done from a list showing who has paid capitation taxes. For old voters the payments have to be made six months before election, but the new voters can pay thirty days before the election. All the women come under the classification of new voters. If there is no list of the voters the callers will not be able to cast a ballot. There is a list of the voters in the city, and in Richmond several volunteers have been at work for many days aiding in the task of having these lists perfected.

Good Roads, Better Schools.

Roads and schools are to come up for the consideration of the voters at the election next month. The proposition affecting the first of these is for empowering the legislature to issue bonds for establishing permanent highways of the state type. There is a good deal of opposition to this on the score that it means a great increase in taxation in addition to the increase that follows the reclassification of lands, which is operative next year and the new tax would be laid on this increased valuation. Many of the leaders in the manufacturing business, the chambers of commerce and all sorts of organizations are making efforts to have favorable action on the amendments, but there are many persons who are opposed to the tax. In the matter of schools the idea is to have the counties and cities increase their local school taxes. There are several counties that have poor schools, paying poor salaries for short terms, and these are the counties which have the lowest valuation of property and the lowest rate for the support of the schools. The voters of the state would allow the counties and cities to raise their taxation for school purposes to a rate which would give creditable schools, reasonable pay for teachers and to increase the length of the school term. The latter amendments are in high favor.

Women of the city set out to raise funds for the democratic party and they worked with spirit all day, the result being that they piled up several thousand dollars in cash for the benefit of the party in the city, the state and for the national committee. The money was received was placed in a local bank under the name of the party, and the contributions ran from pennies to twenty dollars.

RHODE ISLAND FORECAST AS CERTAIN FOR HARDING

PROVIDENCE, R. I., October 23.—(Special).—Rhode Island enters the home stretch of the campaign practically certain, according to most of the unbiased observers, to give Harding and Coolidge a record-breaking plurality, to re-elect three republican representatives in Congress and to install a complete republican ticket in state officers. The hope of the republicans are so high that they are making a determined effort to capture the local office which in the past years are conceded to the opposition. Lieut. Cox came to this city last Wednesday, but his reception was not greatly enthusiastic.

The democrats have put up a more aggressive campaign than in previous years, but in the republican camp there is a quiet confidence in the result. Edward M. Sullivan of Cranston, an old-line politician, has been making a spectacular fight for the democratic nomination, and has made many charges of mismanagement by the republicans in the conduct of the state government. Lieut. Gov. Emory J. Sansoucy, the republican candidate for governor, has made few speeches and has not made a reply to any of the charges of Mr. Sullivan.

The congressional fight has all been lukewarm. Luigi de Pasquale of this city, who is a republican, has been expected to pull heavily from the French-Canadian vote. Mr. Lacaze has done little stumping to date, while Mr. Kennedy has been talking regularly in various parts of the district.

H. C. L. in Germany to Cause Rush of Emigrants to U. S.

PARIS, October 24.—Emigration from Germany to the United States will be tremendous if no barrier is raised by the latter country when the latter country is finally freed, according to reports reaching Dr. Rupert Blue, surgeon general of the United States, upon whose health service, upon whose staff of American doctors is the responsibility of medically examining emigrant sound for America.

The Germans wish to emigrate to the United States, because of the high cost of living and the heavy tax burden levied for many years to come.

Wholesale emigration from Germany to the United States is impossible now because the two countries still are technically at war, and the German passport is not allowed to give a maximum of twenty-five German passports weekly.

DEMOCRATS ARE HOPING TO ELECT LONERGAN

Make No Claims of Carrying Connecticut, Which Is Regarded as Certainly Republican.

HARTFORD, Conn., October 23.—(Special).—Only two questions are particularly interesting to the voters of Connecticut on the home stretch of the campaign—the result of the contest between United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee and Representative Augustine Lonergan for the former's seat in the upper house of Congress, and the magnitude of the victory for the republican ticket. The election of the republican ticket, aside from the republican state ticket, is almost beyond question. In fact, the democratic leaders make no claims of carrying the state, although they still hope to win the coveted seat in the Senate. So the question, except on the point as to the extent of the republican plurality.

The general belief is that Connecticut, with its increased electorate, will be carried by the republicans by the biggest plurality in the history of the state. It could be surprising if the republicans had a plurality of less than 40,000, and 5,000 is not too much to expect.

As to the Brandegee-Lonergan contest, which is the center of political interest, arriving at a forecast is far from an easy matter, with a number of factors to be taken into consideration. It is not easy to figure out how Senator Brandegee can run far enough behind his ticket to be defeated, and here are those who believe that he will, after gains and losses are figured, show no net loss, but run as well as his associates on the republican state ticket. Unless reliable signs fail, the republican margin is too big this year for any candidate to carry the state, although the republicans are confident of the victory.

U. S. AID IN LONDON.

E. J. Costello, Held in London, Said to Have Soviet Connection.

The fact that E. J. Costello, managing editor of the Federated Press of Chicago, is an American citizen and carried an American passport when arrested in London and ordered deported last Thursday, did not help him out of his trouble, reports received here from London. Correspondence published a connection between the Federated Press and the London Herald, said to have been subsidized by the soviet government in Russia, to spread propaganda in Great Britain.

Costello professed that he had not visited Russia, but admitted having been in Germany and the Baltic states. Documents in his possession proved, it said, that he had been in conference at various places with soviet agents and had been in possession of soviet money. A complete report of the discoveries of the Scotland yard department, but Department of Justice and State Department officials have not indicated what their course will be.

MOVIES VIEW WOMEN IN AROUSING THE VOTERS

Interest in Contest in Pennsylvania Seems to Be Concentrated in Congressional Districts.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE STAR.

HARRISBURG, Pa., October 23.—That campaign of a state-wide character there is under way in Pennsylvania seems to have been started by the women of the two major parties. They are conducting a more or less vigorous series of tours of the local counties of the state, especially the rural regions, and have galvanized some local leaders into action, with the result that old-time political meetings will once more mark the final week of the campaign.

The organized republican women, who have been having numerous meetings for the purpose of arousing voters in issues of the campaign and marking of the ballot in the county towns of Pennsylvania, have a "hyphen" of woman speakers touring the state. In this group of speakers are Mrs. Barclay J. Warburton, daughter of the president, and women's state chairman, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, Mrs. Lillian Russell Mord and others. The republican women are touring the anthracite counties, where there are hot congressional battles, the last few days and observers declare they have been very effective in arousing many woman voters. The democratic women speakers include Mrs. William H. Rorer, Mrs. J. E. Kean Fowler of Chester county, Mrs. R. C. Renshaw of Allegheny county and others. The republican women are touring the state, and the democratic women are touring the state, and the democratic women are touring the state.

FIGHT IN SOUTH DAKOTA CHIEFLY FOR SENATOR

Believed That Norbeck, Republican, Will Win—Suit Against Non-Partisan League.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., October 23.—(Special).—The contest for the United States senatorship overshadows all other issues in the closing days of the campaign in South Dakota.

The democratic candidate for election as United States senator, Charles Cherry, and Thomas H. Ayers, the candidate of the Non-Partisan League, are the two main contestants in the fight against Gov. Peter Norbeck, the republican nominee.

Gov. Norbeck has had the opposition center its fight against him, and in the past campaign he has won overwhelming victories. Those in close touch with his campaign predict that he will be the same at the election on November 2, and that his plurality will not be under 40,000.

He is expected to secure the votes of a great majority of the republican voters, as he has for years been a strong advocate of woman suffrage, and was an important factor in granting the right of franchise to the women of South Dakota before the adoption of the national suffrage amendment.

The republican party in South Dakota are said to realize that the fight in the nation for control of the United States Senate may depend upon South Dakota, and the republican party are said to be working for a party support solidly Gov. Norbeck November 2.

President Townley and other officers and members of the Non-Partisan League, which has been elected to North Dakota, and which is struggling to elect United States senator from South Dakota, defaulted in appearance in a suit instituted in the federal court here by Seth Teasdale, an attorney of Aberdeen, who accordingly was granted a judgment of $1,374.40 against the defendants. His judgment will draw 8 percent interest until paid. Teasdale formerly was a member of the Non-Partisan League, but two years ago was the candidate of the league for attorney general of South Dakota. Quitting naturally, he fell out of the league and President Townley and other officers and prominent members of the league have created something of a sensation in the Non-Partisan League circles in South Dakota.

It was charged that during the fall of 1918, while the war between the United States and Germany was at its height, Teasdale was engaged by the league to defend violators of the espionage laws who were arrested on charges of sabotage and other offenses. ALFRED BURKHOLDER.

T. S. Bentley, Guest in Local Hotel, Placed Under Arrest.

Thaddeus S. Bentley, forty-five years old, a guest at a local hotel, was arrested last night on a charge of blackmail, preferred by Harry Ross, a traveling salesman, and a guest at another hotel.

The arrest was brought about by Lieut. Guy E. Burlingame, night chief of detectives, and Detectives Kelly and Scrivener. Ross reported to the police of this city that he had been blackmailed by Bentley. The two detectives were secreted in a room in a hotel, and Bentley is alleged to have accepted a check for $1,475 and $25 in marked bills he was placed under arrest.

One's optimism as to the success of one's favorite presidential candidate need not necessarily be measured by the length of time one has been interested in politics. TENNESSEE G. O. P. FIGHT HARD FOR STATE

Senator McKellar Declares That Nothing Is Surer Than The Success of the Democrats.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE STAR.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., October 23.—Not in years have the republicans made so vigorous a fight in Tennessee as during this campaign. All the available republican artillery in the state has been hurried to the hustings in the effort to make Tennessee the scene of the dent in the solid south in three times.

Since the days of reconstruction Tennessee has been an assured asset in the democratic column, and the presidential races, dropping down as low as 15,000 majority only once in the 1896 campaign—and for the rest of the time giving a 20,000 majority with regularity. Since 1870 the state has elected a republican candidate only three times.

United States Senator Kenneth D. McKellar, who is campaigning for the democratic ticket in the state, declares there is nothing surer than that Tennessee will go for Cox and Roosevelt by a comfortable majority. Republican leaders admit that they believe that Alf Taylor, their candidate for governor, will run ahead of Harding in the election.

There is apparently a large contingent of business men who favor Harding. President Taft is a strong time want Gov. A. H. Roberts returned governor, the governor's stand against the so-called "red menace" being one of the features of his administration. On the other hand, the labor element is at loggerheads with President. These divergent lines of the cities than in the country districts. In the latter there is considerable support for the republican ticket.

The most interesting element is, of course, the woman's vote, and no one knows just what that will amount to. It is safe to say that the women who vote will generally vote as their husbands, father or brothers do.

It is of interest that the state now boasts a strong republican legislature from the ranks of the new voters. Miss Frances Wolf, an attorney at Memphis, is a candidate for a seat in the Shelby county delegation in the House. She is affiliated with a so-called people's ticket. In Greene county, a strong republican county, in east Tennessee, Mrs. Carrie M. Clemens has been given the democratic nomination for representative.

German Toys in; Come to Break Down Prices

NEW ORLEANS, October 23.—Within the last few days about 600 packages of German toys have found entry into the United States through the port of New Orleans, and more are being received on every ship coming from Rotterdam to this port.

Some of the German toys are consigned to New Orleans, while others are in transit to other cities. It is believed here that the receipt of these toys will tend to bring down the high price of toys of the past few Christmases.

It is also stated by customs officials that France is sending over large quantities of French-made toys, and that the toys are being received also, the ban in that country against the importation of German toys having been greatly increased the toy-making industry.

A permit was issued by Gen. Steiner a few days ago to Lewis H. Reynolds, a republican candidate for United States senator against Senator Oscar W. Underwood in the November 2 election. Judge Reynolds was permitted to hold a political meeting at Jasper, Ala., in the very heart of the coal district and in the midst of the strike zone.

The commission of Birmingham then gave a permit to hold a public meeting in a large park there. This order at this time that speeches were made calling upon the governor to withdraw troops from the strike field. This, however, was not done. Judge Reynolds was seized upon the situation, together with the attitude of Secretary Houston of the Treasury, who is known to be a strong supporter of the federal reserve banking system, and is conducting a fight against the strike movement along these lines. Nobody expects Judge Reynolds to win his fight, but it is now believed that he will poll a larger republican vote in the state than has ever been cast before.

YOUTH'S WOUNDS SERIOUS

Fillmore M. Harry, the twenty-two-year-old youth who was shot yesterday on Bladensburg road, en route to this city from Baltimore, was reported in a critical condition at Casualty Hospital last night.

The wounds to the liver and intestines, it was declared, make his chance for recovery extremely doubtful.

Police inquiry, under Detective Scrivener of headquarters and Sergeant Burke and Private Lohman of the ninth precinct, yesterday endeavored to light relations between the wounded man and Horace G. Atkinson, who is being held at the ninth precinct "for investigation."

Detective Scrivener said that he had secured an admission from Atkinson that he had gone to the home of Harry and made a threat some time ago.

COX CAN'T WIN, SAYS BOY HEAD OF G. O. P. CLUB

One's optimism as to the success of one's favorite presidential candidate need not necessarily be measured by the length of time one has been interested in politics. Sylvan Wurtzbarger, twelve years old, and vice president of the Young American Republican Club, recently formed, came into the Star office to tell of the organization of this club.

"We are going to keep this club up after election time," declared the vice president.

"Suppose Cox wins?" President Wurtzbarger smiled.

"Oh, he can't win!" he said, with tremendous emphasis on the word that is not supposed to be in the "bright lexicon of youth."

L. Multis, thirteen years old, is president of the club, and Malcolm Edwards, twelve years old, secretary. The club meets every Saturday afternoon at 1326 New York avenue. It has a membership of twenty boys, and wants thirty more.
